

Berkeley Demography Brown Bag Talks

Fall 2019

Wednesdays, 12:10 to 1:00 pm
Demography Seminar Room, 2232 Piedmont Avenue

September 4

Juan Manuel García González, Sociology, Pablo de Olavide University, Seville

Life course and emotional health of centenarians in Spain: findings from the Sevilla and Salamanca Centenarian Studies

September 11

Sam Clark, Sociology, Ohio State University

A General Mortality Model & Moving Verbal Autopsy from Research to Routine Use

September 18

Mark Hayward, Sociology, University of Texas at Austin

Life course origins of dementia for black and white Americans

September 25

Ben Domingue, Sociology, Stanford University

Genetics and Education: Recent Developments in the Context of an Ugly History and an Uncertain Future

October 2

Jeronimo Muñiz, Sociology, University of British Columbia

Racial fluidity and its impact on income inequality over time

October 9

Margot Jackson, Sociology, Brown University

Title TBA

October 16

Anna Godøy, UC Berkeley Institute on Research for Labor and Employment

Title TBA

October 23

Christopher Wildeman, Sociology, University of British Columbia

The Long-Term Consequences of Solitary Confinement

October 30

No talk this week.

November 6

Michal Engelman, Sociology, University of Wisconsin

Inequality and Health across the Life Course: Gradual Change or Punctuated Equilibrium?

November 13

No talk this week.

November 20

David Rehkopf, Stanford Center on Poverty & Inequality; Health Disparities Research Group

The long-term impacts of large-scale public works spending on population health

December 4

Susan Parker, Public Policy, University of Maryland

Title TBA

December 11

Emma Aguila, Economics & Public Policy, University of Southern California

Public Income Support and Health at Older Ages