

Position Description for Position in Medical Sociology and Aging

University of Hawai'i at Manoa (in Honolulu). The Department of Sociology invites applicants for an Assistant Professor (with expertise in Medical Sociology), position number 84346, 9-month, tenure track, permanent, general funds, full time, 9-month, to begin August 1, 2011, contingent upon position clearance and availability of funds. The University of Hawai'i is a Carnegie Doctoral (Research University/Very High Research Activity) institution. The Department of Sociology offers B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees and has a record of excellence in its research and in the delivery of its curricular offerings across four thematic areas: Asia and/or the Pacific region; race and ethnic relations; health, well-being and aging; and, criminology.

Duties: To teach undergraduate and graduate courses in Medical Sociology and Aging and in another substantive area of expertise; maintain an active program of research and publication; seek extramural funding; advise undergraduate and graduate students; supervise student research; participate in departmental, university, and professional activities.

Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D. in Sociology or related field from an accredited college, university, or foreign equivalent (completed by date of appointment); demonstrated ability to teach medical sociology and aging from an international and domestic perspective; an active program of research and publication in medical sociology, aging, or other related fields.

Desirable Qualifications: We seek candidates who will work well in an interdisciplinary environment with a very strong international focus and a highly diverse student body. The College of Social Sciences and the Department of Sociology are committed to excellence in teaching and innovative educational strategies. The successful candidate will combine their expertise in medical sociology and aging with demonstrated substantive interests in one or more of the following areas: Comparative Sociology of Asia and/or the Pacific region; race and ethnic relations; and, criminology.

Salary: Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

To apply: please visit this website: <http://surveys.socialsciences.hawaii.edu/ework/>. Send three letters of recommendations to the address below. Attention: Cherry Rojo 2424 Maile Way, Saunders 247 Honolulu, HI 96822

Inquiries: Cherry Rojo, telephone (808) 956-7693, FAX (808) 956-3707, or e-mail clrojo@hawaii.edu.

Review of applications will begin December 1, 2010 and will continue until position is filled.

An EEO/AA Employer